

Quality early education changes lives. At Clayton Early Learning, we see living proof of this each day as we work to better prepare young children for success in school and life. Well-documented research on human brain development shows that the prenatal-to-5 period offers the highest potential for development, as well as the highest risks. We succeed in closing learning gaps by working in partnership with parents to develop, measure and support school readiness goals.

Clayton Early Learning's School Readiness Goals

Social and Emotional Development Children will demonstrate growth in sense of self and meaningful social-emotional relationships with adults and peers supported by their families' knowledge of their child's social and emotional needs.

Approaches to Learning Children will grow in their exploration and expression of individual talents through persistence, curiosity and enjoyment of learning with peers supported by their families' active engagement with learning opportunities in the home, school and community.

Physical Development and Health Children will grow in their understanding of health and wellness habits and increased physical development along an individual continuum supported by families' health and wellness knowledge and practices.

Language and Literacy Children will demonstrate developmentally and culturally appropriate growth in early language and literacy skills supported by their families' engagement in evidence-based practices.

Cognitive and General Knowledge Children will demonstrate growth in higher level thinking skills as they apply them to their developing knowledge of STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) and their social world supported by their families' engagement with learning opportunities in home and in school.
